FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

AWR NAMED ONE OF THE D.C. AREA'S 'BEST PLACES TO WORK'

McLean, VA — May 15, 2008 — Argy, Wiltse & Robinson, P.C. (AWR), a rapidly-growing certified public accounting and business advisory firm, is proud to announce that it has been recognized by Washington Business Journal as one of the D.C. area's Best Places to Work.

The annual Best Places to Work program recognizes 50 regional companies for their positive work environment, recruitment and retention policies, employee satisfaction, working conditions and company culture. Nominated companies receive an online opinion survey to distribute to employees, who anonymously respond to quantitative questions that ask their opinions about the organization, managers, culture, benefits, and personal career growth. Washington Business Journal, with QMR Market Research, conducted the survey.

“We work hard at creating and maintaining a positive work environment, including great benefits and opportunities for career growth, etc. Internal feedback and data such as low turnover rates indicated people really enjoy working here,” said Paul Argy, the firm’s President and CEO, “but it’s especially nice to be recognized externally for it. Our success is due to the over 200 employees who make this company truly a special place to work.”

Washington Business Journal requires at least 50% employee participation for companies to be considered; more than 80% of AWR employees responded to the survey. The firm will be recognized in a special section of the Washington Business Journal and at an event on June 13.
